Get to know the Territory's youth

Children and young people have told us that it's important we listen to them, especially with issues affecting them. The Office of the Children's Commissioner (OCC) want to hear from you about the issues affecting your future, such as school, family, bullying, relationships, mental health, crime or the environment to name a few.

If you are under 25 and want to have your voice heard about the issues that are important to you, here's how you can get involved...

See us.

Photo Competition: Show us the real you!

Hear us.

Participation Activities: The OCC will ask children and young people to tell us about their community.

Youth Advisory Council (YAC): The OCC will establish a YAC for 2018. The YAC will provide feedback directly to the Children's Commissioner.

Know us.

Storytelling Project: Tell people your story through video, art, dance, poetry or any medium you choose.
